

PETROS SOLOMON, director of Military Intelligence and Surveillance of EPLF. The Eritrean officer is now languishing in eternal darkness in Era Ero since 2002 as Era Ero cells are lightproof cells and inmates are denied lights.

SNAP SHOT

The following is a time machine report.

2ND Army Eritrea, Ethiopia January 1982

16 TH Senteq Mechanized Brigade

The Cream of 2ND Army

Colonel Kasaye Chemeda is commissioned by Ethiopia's High Command of military to create a brand new all purpose mechanized crack force out of the existing brigades of 2ND Army.

Colonel Chemeda has just finished pulling three new Shaleqas (800-1000 strong battalions) out of 26TH and 28TH mechanized brigades. He then amalgamated the three new Shaleqas into a mechanized brigade. The new brigade is named 16TH Senteq Mechanized Brigade.

The best of the best soldiers, officers and military professionals were filtered out of the ordinary mechanized brigades in the creation of Senteq.

Senteq is pretty much Ethiopia's rapid response Blitzkrieg, second to none. It's the cream of 2ND Army. This formidable mechanized brigade has tanks, artillery units, Zu-23 anti-aircraft gunneries and mobile equipments.

Senteq, as its name suggests is primarily formed as a crack force to penetrate EPLF strongholds and frontlines in Eritrea. It is also to be used as quick response force against the junior TPLF in Tigray.

Petros Solomon

Director of Military Intelligence and Surveillance of EPLF

As Colonel Chemeda boisterously baptized his new creation "Senteq" in Agordat, perhaps his challenger Petros Solomon, the director of Military Intelligence and Surveillance of EPLF hasn't missed this important baptism.

Solomon's job is to collect and analyze every single grain of intelligence coming out of the enemy, from the dirty Teklehaymanot Road of the homelesses in Addis Ababa to Sewa Biets of Agordat.

He already might have seen the blueprint of Senteq. Where ever Senteq moved, so would be Solomon's peering eyes. It's very dangerous, to mess up with him.
